Rev. Father Gomph, the Leader of Opposition, to Plan to Discontinue Chapel in Furtherance of Al leged Plan to Build Tenements In Its Place-Assumes Duties on Sunday.

Charles Lewis Gomph, the oung Episcopalian clergyman who as vicar of Corporation's St. John's Chapel in New York city made a hold and last day of grace for the filing of lists determined effort to thwart the plans of the Corporation to discontinue the practices act. Most all of the statechapel, is to celebrate his first mass as rector of Trinity Church this city, the money was spent for carriage hire, Sunday morning. Father Gomph has

Sunday morning. Father Gomph has accepted the call to the rectorate of the local church. A young man of determination, vigorous policies and much scholarly attainment, he is expected to prove a notable addition to the ranks of the local clergy.

Father Gomph, comes as the successor of the Rev. Father William B. Stoskopf, whose final act as rector of the church will be his celebration of the mass Thursday morning at o'clock. A fellow student of Father Stoskopf in Amherst, 1900 he entered the General Theological Seminary with Father Stoskopf and completed his theological training in the class of 1903. Shortly after being graduated he was assigned to the vicarship of St. John's chapel.

chapel, Maintained under the auspices of the Trinity Church corporation, this chapel a few months ago was deemed by several of the influential members of the corporation to be unwisely located for a continuance in church work, and plans were inauguarted for the disestablishment of the branch.

Just about this time, Trinity Church Corporation was under fire, it being set forth by writers and playwrights that the organization was maintaining a number of sordid tenement houses, a number of sordid tenement houses, contrary to the laws of health if not the laws of the state. "The Handwriting on the Wail" played by Olga Nethersole directed the public gaze to the condition of Trinity Church Corporation's investments. Growing out of this agitation came the claim that the proposed abandonment of St. John's Chapel was merely a stepping stone towards another big realty project of the corporation.

Father Gomph at once stepped forward as a champion of the cause of the chapel, and insisted upon its maintenance. Disputes arose as to how the abandonment was to be effected, and as to who should have the right to decide upon the future of the chapel. Members of the corporation maintained they had the sole voice, while the pew holders of the chapel declared they had been maintaining the undertaking and were entitled to pass upon the question of the proposed abandonment of the enterprise. tic association of the First district re-ceived $125 from John J. PRETTY WAITRESS they had been maintaining the undertaking and were entitled to pass upon the question of the proposed abandonment of the enterprise.

At one time the agitation became so violent that the doors of the little chapel were barricaded against the would-be participants in the meetings at which the discussion was carried on, and all this time Father Gomph retained his position, declaring for the continuance of the chapel.

At length the corporation vanquished the valiant young clergyman, and the church was only recently closed. Father Gormph's predecessor in this city, Father Stoskopf has been located in Bridgeport for about a year, succeeding the late Rev. Louis N. Booth. He leaves to become rector of the Church of the Ascension, Chicago, Regret at the forthcoming departure of Father Stoskopf is mingled with pleasure at the success of the church in securing a young man of Father Gomph's ability.
